

CITY OF ANAHEIM

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the arts enhance every aspect of life in California, the education of its children, civic life, community development, and the state's rich cultural heritage, enabling communication across many diverse cultures and enriching the lives of every Californian; and

WHEREAS, the arts promote positive social development and foster creativity, while also serving as a catalyst for economic growth, cultural tourism, and downtown redevelopment; and

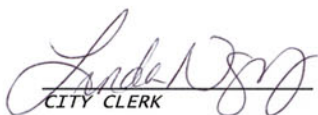

WHEREAS, California Arts Day, which coincides with the beginning of the national celebration of Arts and Humanities Month, will celebrate the value, strength, and beauty of the arts and the important role the arts play in California's culture;

NOW BE IT HEREBY PROCLAIMED by the Anaheim City Council that October 1, 2004, be designated as in the City of Anaheim and that all residents are encouraged to demonstrate their appreciation for the arts and the many ways in which it improves the health and vitality of civic life and encourage others to increase their participation in the arts and humanities.

CALIFORNIA ARTS DAY

AUTHORIZED by the Anaheim City Council this 14th day of September, 2004.
